Order

The Iowa Supreme Court adopts changes in two annual deadlines set in the Iowa Court Rules, as recommended by the office of professional regulation.

The first change adjusts the date set in Iowa Court Rule 31.2 for submission of registrations by law students who intend to apply for admission to the bar of Iowa. The current due date of November 1 inconveniently falls toward the last part of the law students' first semester when students are beginning their preparation for examinations. The new date of January 15 will allow law students to prepare and submit their registration after the first semester examinations have been completed.

The second change is the date set for submission of annual reports by active lawyers to the commission on continuing legal education and the client security commission. The current due date of March 1 conflicts with the scheduling of the winter bar examination the last week in February. The new due date of March 10 resolves the conflict and accords lawyers an additional ten days for annual report filing.

The court adopts amendments in Iowa Court Rules 31.2, 39.5, 39.6, 39.8, 41.4, and 42.2 as provided with this order. The amendments are effective immediately.

Dated this 25th day of April, 2014.
